ROBERT SCOTT SAYS HE SHOT JOS. MAURER

"Confession" Made to Newspaper; Legal Tangle Result

Chicago, July 24—(AP)—The celebrated case of Robert and Russell Scott, convicted murderers, which has spectacularly surged upward through the courts for many months, came into public attention again today with a statement by Robert to the Herald & Examiner that he fired the shot that slew Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk.

Robert, who was returned here from a California prison, recently pleaded guilty to the murder before Judge William N. Gammill and was sentenced to life imprisonment. In his statement to the paper he declared "I lied to save my neck."

Russell Awaiting Death
His elder brother Russell, about whom has revolved some of the most intricate legal maneuvers in American jurisprudence, earlier pleaded guilty also, was sentenced to death, withdrew the plea, was found guilty by a jury and after a half dozen trials and reprieves now is awaiting death on the gallows in October.

That the purported confession of Robert will result in a new legal warfare to save Russell from the noose seemed certain. The possible effect of Robert's statement was being discussed in legal circles here, the Herald and Examiner quoting authorities on criminal law as declaring that nothing could be done to change his life sentence to one of death.

Could Be Pardoned
The courts have lost jurisdiction over the case now as far as the murder is concerned, they believed. The opinion was likewise held that the courts are done with Russell and that the statement cannot help him directly, although it was pointed out that he could be pardoned by the Governor.

Russell denied that he had ever laid the blame for the killing at Robert's door, although he was generally quoted in the newspapers as having accused his brother before Robert was found in prison.

Robert's declaration, printed in the newspaper over his signature and attested by Fred Springer, first assistant superintendent of the jail, contained what purported to be a complete description of the scene in the City Hall Pharmacy on the fateful night of April 2, 1924, when Maurer was slain.

According to Robert, the slaying resulted from a quarrel over a 15 cent package of cigarettes, with no robbery motive involved.

SECOND GANG KILLING IN NIGHT BRINGS CHICAGO'S TOTAL TO 42 IN THEIR VOLLEYS DURING YEAR

Chicago, July 24—(AP)—Alcohol gangsters last night claimed their second victim within 24 hours and the 42nd attributed to their volleys since January.

John Conlon, 25, and a reputed minor henchman, of one of the gangs warring over the illicit liquor traffic, was riddled with shotgun slugs while he sat with friends at a table in a west side saloon.

His assailants believed to have been two in number, were not seen. They slipped up to a rear door, swept their weapons over the crowded room before making a target of Conlon, then fired and disappeared.

The patrons, many of them women, dropped to the floor when the guns roared, some of the women screaming. They fled immediately after the shooting, however, and the police found only the bartender, who gave them little information.

The Cotter boy was said to have been struck by the radiator on the car but the wheels did not pass over his body, and he was reported to be suffering from bruises.

Witnesses to the accident stated this morning that Mr. Egler was driving slowly and this is accountable for the fact that the car did not pass over the boy's body.

Paul Smith's, N. Y., July 24—(AP)—The advisability of beginning construction of a 6,000,000 cubic foot lighter than air ship for the navy next year was discussed by President Coolidge and Secretary Wilbur of the Navy Department today, but no conclusions were reached. The craft, which would be three times the size of the Shenandoah, would cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000.

Mr. Coolidge was also informed by Mr. Wilbur that arrangements had been made for the receivers in the Pan-American Petroleum case, involving the E. L. Doheny lease of the navy oil reserves in the Elk Hills reserve in California to pay into the government treasury $3,500,000 on Aug. 1 and $250,000 a month thereafter. The money is in the possession of the receivers from accumulated receipts under their operation of the properties and is beyond and above the amounts which could be affected by pending litigation.

The validity of the Doheny leases is now before the United States Supreme Court for decision.

Taylorville, Ill., July 24—(AP)—State's Attorney Prehls expects to go to Vandalia this afternoon to interview Mrs. Lily Jackson in connection with his investigation of the disappearance of Peter Rosenberger, missing Assumption farmer, he stated today.

Mrs. Jackson has promised to show Prehls where John Robinson, her former lover, had buried the body of a woman whom he said he had murdered because she didn't obey him. Robinson, a former employee of Rosenberger and an ex-convict, may be connected with the aged man's disappearance, Prehls said.

Prehls did not indicate whether he would go to Macomb to investigate the place where Mrs. Jackson has promised to show him the murdered woman's grave. He said late this morning that there were no new developments in the investigation of the disappearance.

Rosenberger has been missing from his Christian County farm since June 30.

REPORTER FINDS DETROIT WORST CITY IN NATION

Says It's "Wide Open" With Police Winking at Evil

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

Detroit, July 24—The American Society of Hygiene Association recently issued a voluminous report declaring that Detroit is the "blackest, vilest city in the country so far as vice is concerned."

Saloons, gambling houses and vice dens run unchecked. It was charged, without fear of police interference. The city is known in every underworld in the country, it was said, as a place where vice can operate unchecked.

I came to Detroit, a stranger, to see for myself if conditions are as bad as the association has charged. And after a long night during which I passed through blind pigs, disorderly houses, gambling dens and speakeasies without number, I can say:

"They are."

Seen in One Night
Publication of the association's report has raised a storm in the city's official circles. Police vice and prohibition squads have been reorganized, officers have been shifted and Canton, O., July 24—(AP)—Lloyd Mellett, city editor of the Daily News and brother of the slain Canton publisher, today revealed to investigators details of the Mellett campaign against vice which resulted in Don's murder on July 16. It is believed Lloyd may reveal a hidden clue. He had been in Indianapolis since the funeral of his brother there and returned to Canton last night.

Until noon the police had questioned ten women of the underworld.

Canton, O., July 24—(AP)—Armed members of the Ohio National Guard patrolled the immediate vicinity of the homes of several Canton officials all night.

The stationing of the guardsmen in plain clothes about the homes of the county officials followed receipt of continued threats that they abandon the search for the slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, shot to death a week ago as he was entering his garage. Mellett had been warning on vice in Canton through his newspaper.

The announcement of the presence of the guardsmen was the most startling development in the case since the commission of the crime.

Postal officials also have enlisted in the case, because of the use of the mails for the carrying of threatening letters to officials. These communications have come from many cities.

He reported the day following the slaying of Mellett that his car had been stolen.

Several 38 calibre bullets were found in the car.

Coroner McQuate is in New Haven, Conn., today for consultation with experts of the Winchester Arms Company. McQuate submitted the bullet that killed Mellett and two others found at the scene to the arms experts. They will give their opinion as to whether they were discharged from a rifle or a pistol and the calibre of the weapon and the range at which they were fired.

TEXAS PRIMARY TODAY HOLDS INTEREST OF NATION; FIGHT ON "MA" FERGUSON IS OVER

Dallas, Texas, July 24—(AP)—Democratic and republican voters will go to the primary polls in Texas today to select state tickets and nominees for 13 national congressional offices, with interest centered in the democratic gubernatorial race. It is the first time a republican primary has been held in Texas.

Five candidates are in the race for the democratic nomination for the office held by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, the field having been reduced by one when Mrs. K. M. Johnston of San Antonio withdrew yesterday and urged her adherents to support Mrs. Ferguson. Political observers declare the gubernatorial contest lies between Mrs. Ferguson, Attorney General Dan Moody and Lynch Davidson, Houston lumberman. Mrs. Edith Williams of Dallas and the Rev. O. F. Zimmerman of Morris county are the other candidates.

"Fergusonism" was laid down and accepted as the gubernatorial contest issue at the inception of the present race. By Fergusonism, all factions have avowed, is implied James E. Ferguson husband of the present governor, and himself a former governor who resigned from that office when impeached. Ferguson they claim dictates policies followed by his wife.

HICKS CONSTRUCTION COMPANY GIVEN FOURTH IMPROVEMENT CONTRACT BY DIXON BOARD

The S. D. Hicks Construction Company of Moline was awarded two more local improvements at a special meeting of the board of local improvements at the city hall yesterday afternoon. The contractor was awarded his fourth job in Dixon this season, having been the lowest bidder on all of the paving work that it being undertaken this season. He has completed the grading of the west end paving job and the concrete curb and gutter is being finished today. The big mixer used in pouring the slab will probably begin work Tuesday morning. Today the contractor was one month ahead of his schedule on the west end work, attributing the gain to the ideal weather for grading. The grading contractor moved yesterday to Ottawa avenue, where the old macadam is being torn out to make room for cement.

raised their asking prices. Buying demand during the first two days of the week was sufficient to maintain the advance but on Thursday less activity was noted and the eastern markets appeared no more than steady.

Statistics insofar as receipts at the four markets were concerned also lent considerable strength to the situation. Receipts of butter at the four markets for the first four days of the week were 14,422 tubs lighter than the corresponding period of the week previous but exceeded those of a like period last year by 2292 tubs.

Clearing House Report

New York, July 24.—(AP)—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows excess reserve of $22,540,170. This is an increase in reserve of $21,210,930 compared with the week before when excess reserve of $11,329,240 was reported.

Weekly Grain Review

Chicago, July 24.—(AP)—Leading trade authorities here are confident that the recent government estimate of domestic winter wheat production will have to be raised to a material extent. Striking optimistic reports are current as to yields in the region adjacent to Chicago. This fact, together with huge arrivals of winter wheat in the southwest, is an outstanding feature of the week in the grain trade.

Compared with a week ago, wheat values this morning were 3c to 5 1/2c higher, with corn carrying from 1/2c to 1 1/2c up and provisions 22c to $1 down. With the wheat crop in general, falling prices have been the rule. Indications have been that producers will market freely and meanwhile the movement of wheat to southwestern terminals has been prodigious. Although rains in the spring wheat states have somewhat relieved the drought conditions, latest advices point to lower estimates of spring wheat production as compared with July. Canadian crop conditions however are represented as decidedly better than the most recent official forecast would suggest.

With the corn crop in general, generally expected to fall well below the 1925 output, corn prices for the most part are showing an upward trend. The value of corn for July delivery here however, is weakened by the large amount in Chicago elevators and by the fact that some of this corn has been posted as out of condition.

Crop damage reports from a wide sweep of oats territory have strengthened the oats market.

For weather went hand in hand with a falling off in call for packing house products.

REPORTER FINDS DETROIT WORST CITY IN NATION

civic leaders declare that the city will be cleaned up. Perhaps, I am only concerned with presenting an account of what I saw between dusk and dawn on a Saturday night.

A dingy sort of bar room was my first stop. A fishy-eyed, chinless little man stopped me as I started in and said:

"Well, yourself," I replied. "I want a drink."

"What day is it?" he asked. "Saturday."

"Well, if it's Saturday you'd ought to holler 'Saturday.' Now, if it'd been Thursday you shoulda said 'Thursday.' Won't you guys ever learn nothing? We gotta be careful here."

So I was admitted. The room with a bar along one side and six tables in the center, had only a few patrons. It was early. Behind the bar were rows of bottles bearing whisky, gin, vermouth and absinthe labels. The beer, at 25 cents a glass was good. So were the whisky and gin. All the liquor came from Canada—across the river, I was told.

I went on to another bar, picked at random. A man stopped me and asked my name.

"Name's Smith," said I. "You ought to remember me."

"Oh, one of the Smith's of Detroit," he said, never cracking a smile. "Come in, Mr. Smith."

Rye whisky sold at a dollar a "shot" in this place; stiff stuff, but it could be worse.

During the course of the next hour I wandered unchecked into eight more blind pigs and passed dozens of others, easily recognizable. All were much the same as to prices and hangovers.

In one place, on Cass avenue, I was startled to hear the lookout cry:

"Hey, Red, they's a couple of cops outside."

"Well, don't bother me," said the bartender. "Let 'em in."

Two uniformed policemen entered, drank beer and left.

One of the city's best cabarets is located in the basement of a big downtown block. Strains of raucous music filled it, mingling with the jabber of many voices. There were sheiks and shebas without number.

Ladies of the Night

Cigaret smoke made a murky haze over tables and dance floor. Hip pocket flasks appeared everywhere. Diners hailed newcomers, clear across the room, with "whatcha carryin' tonight?"

Unnoticed, I watched the whirligig of legs and colors. It was 1 o'clock when I went outside. A few feet from the door I was stopped by a girl—rather pretty, nicely dressed.

So I entered Detroit's tenderloin. It extends five blocks east and west of Woodward avenue, between Adams and Charlotte streets. In all this district, it seems, there are none other than "ladies of the night."

Oh, yes—and policemen. There are dozens of them. Perhaps they are there to prevent traffic law violations. I passed a girl talking to two of them. She came over and asked me, returning to them when I shook my head and passed on.

There are women everywhere. Five, ten on every sidewalk. Cheap hotels abound, all much alike. In one, which may serve as a sample of all, I found a bar, unlicensed dancing, a very hilarious "Adam and Eve" party in a private dining room, and a "show," which cost a dollar.

There was a rooming house, similar to many more in the district. Two girls ran it. Upstairs they rented rooms. Downstairs they sold beer.

The Gambling Houses

I left the vice district and made my way across town to the gambling houses. A "Capper" on the curb offered to take me into one, I went.

We went to an upper floor in an elevator. Through a peep hole we were eyed carefully before the door opened. In the ante room sat a man with a grim looking shotgun. We were searched for weapons, passed through a corridor by another guard, and admitted to the game.

All these precautions against a police raid? Oh no. The police worry these people not at all. What they're afraid of is a raid by h-jackers. Armed thugs often swoop down on a gambling hall, hold everybody up, and get away with many thousands of dollars.

Two big crap games were in progress. Young and old, rich and poor.

Monday Last Day of Young Folks' Meet

The Presbyterian Young People's Conference, which has been in progress all this week at the Assembly Park, with a hundred or more delegates from churches in the Freeport, Ottawa, and Rock River Presbyteries in attendance, will close Monday, after a most successful session.

The storm of Wednesday night caused a lot of excitement in a few leaky tents but did no particular damage to the camping colony. The regular camp program is being carried out daily. The bugler sounds reveille at 6:30 a. m., and morning watch is at 7 o'clock. Morning worship is from 8:20 to 8:40 o'clock and the first study period is from 8:45 until 9:30. Rev. Charles W. McClelland leads the Bible study and devotional period, Mrs. E. J. Wellington leads the foreign mission lesson and Rev. Marvin W. Cleveland, D. D., synodical superintendent, superintendent of young people's Walters of Joy, Ill., gives instructions in "Young People's Society Methods."

During the second period, from 9:35 to 10:10, the Bible study lesson, Rev. Edgar Smith leads the home mission lesson. Rev. Charles W. McClelland the intermediate-senior program and Rev. Gerrit Verkuyl, Ph. D., middle west work, conducts a study in "Ways of Teaching." The open parliament closes the morning sessions, with discussions of special subjects conducted by different leaders each day. Rev. O. LeRoy Walter of Morrison led the discussion Thursday and Friday, the subjects being "Our Church Organized" and "Our Church at Work."

After dinner a rest hour from 1:30 to 2:30 is followed by recreation. Lunch is at 6 o'clock and vespers begin at 7, with the popular meetings and special addresses at 7:40 p. m. On Sunday there will be Bible school and morning worship, and at 3 p. m. a consecration service will be held. At 7:30 p. m. the young people's closing service will be held, and on Monday the conference will come to an end.

Dixon Delegates to Convention Honored

Rev. Frank Brandteller and Miss Cora Miller of Grace Evangelical church of this city were honored at the joint S. S. and E. C. E. state convention held this week at Westerville, by being chosen to state offices. Rev. Brandteller was made vice president of the S. S. Board of the conference and Miss Miller was chosen recording secretary of the E. C. E.

These two and Misses Mary Hughes and Irma Newman, delegates from the local church to the convention, returned home last evening by way of Springfield, where they visited the Capitol, Lincoln's monument and home and other points of interest.

Berry Roly-Poly.
Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup milk (about), two cups washed and drained raspberries, 1/4 cup sugar, 2 more tablespoons butter.
Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Roll in 3 tablespoons butter with tips of fingers and cut in milk to make a soft dough just stiff enough to roll on a board. Roll in a sheet about 3/4 of an inch thick. Sprinkle with berries, leaving a margin of about 1 inch of plain dough around the edge. Sprinkle with sugar, dot with bits of butter and roll up like a jelly roll. Bake on an oiled and floured baking pan for thirty minutes in a moderately hot oven. Cut in slices and serve with sugar and cream.

Sewing Club Had Picnic in Nelson

About 25 members of the Industrial Sewing Club of the Rock Falls Woman's Relief Corps were delightfully entertained Thursday by Mrs. Earl Stitzel and Miss Ethel Taylor at the former's home in Nelson.

At noon a bountiful dinner was enjoyed. During the afternoon the members accomplished a large amount of sewing for the corps, and enjoyed a short program. Mrs. Harry Bassett and Mrs. Waterman favored with groups of readings which were fine. Late in the afternoon the two hostesses served ice cream and wafers. The crowd departed for their homes voting Mrs. Stitzel and Miss Taylor royal entertainers.

Lee County Folks in West at Picnic

BY GEO. E. KRINBILL.
Long Beach, Calif. July 19.—Beautiful Echo Park in Los Angeles, which is directly opposite Alhambra Temple McPherson's great tabernacle, was the scene on Saturday, July 17, of the seventeenth reunion of the Dixon and Lee county folk in California and a large number of former "Suckers" attended and enjoyed recalling the "old days" and renewing former ties.

Even though we live in the beautiful sunny southland with the great western sea on one side and the grand Sierra Madre Mountains on the other, our thoughts will turn back to scenes and friends of years gone by. It has been the privilege of the writer to be present at everyone of these reunions since the first, and it is quite noticeable how many Lee county people living here retain much of their charm and youthful looks.

Some new additions to the colony were noticed, among them being the Misses Maud Selby, Helen Parker and Marian Cahill, bringing direct news from the old home town. Among the younger men attending for the first time were Gerald Cropsey, Lyle Boyer and two sons of Mrs. Lyle Gage.

Seventeen years ago the society met for the first time at the beautiful orange ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine in Duarte.

The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

Paris, June 28—I have just been put through the Parisian beauty process. I seem to look about the same. But there is every good and fitting reason why I should not.

The beauty process in Paris, la la, is something else again from the home process where one says, "give me a lemon rinse and round curl and please be quick. I am on my lunch hour."

One must dedicate a least half a day to the Muse of Beauty in Paris, and monsieur the beautifier would coo and gush and curl and anoint for a steady eight hours if encouraged.

An appointment is made with all due pomp and ceremony. Madame, the pension keeper, being blest with certain powers of speech with which Paney Herring Pretzel, yu duenna, and I are not, makes the appointment a full week ahead of the festive occasion.

For an appetizer, madame lists that we will have ze hair cut, ze shampoo, ze ondulation, ze perfume, ze tonic, ze hot air, and ze rub.

She explains that once we see the glories of the shop and observe the prowess of the monsieur who makes fair ladies fairer, we will go through the entire bill of fare from soup to nuts.

Comes The Day.
No less than six monsieurs, all most chic with varnished mustachios, bow up in with a tenor chorus of "bon jour, madames."

An aproned monsieur, a bit fairer than the rest ushers us into his own personal boudoir, a sanctum sanctorum of rose and gold with cherubim and seraphim playing tag around the walls.

Monsieur immerses us in frilly rose colored aprons or smocks, which might have seen cleaner days. Dabs of absorbent cotton are wadded around the collar "to keep ze little hairs from tickling so, yes."

The haircut differs little from our American ilk, only interspersed by the cooings of monsieur as he praises the glories of his handiwork and cauls upon us, too, to admire.

Shampooing, too is to these Parisian shops but a cursory thing—a dabbing on of soap and a quick rinsing off. They are impatient for the next step which is to them the one and the only reason for a shampoo—the perfume.

With the pomp of the cellarer proffering his wine list, monsieur proffers his "lotion card!" He breathes out aris as to the charms of jasmine, rose de Jaquiot, ambre emeraude, lilas pourpre, narcissus bleu.

In vain do we try in hybrid French to protest that we have no desire to go about attracting the honey bees. The perfume on ze head is what no lady escapes without, and I don't mean maybe!

We choose one which sounds least offensive and wait the dab. It comes in the way of a water spout—a cloud-burst, a torrent, an entire quart bottle dumped upon one poor defenseless head. We gasp for gas masks, but none come.

Then once again the scene doth change. Monsieur lovingly puts our tresses into his idea of the choicest, the dernier cri, the last thing that which nothing is later. We are given dips and curcles and cauliflower ears and swirls and roller coaster glides. Our temples, ears, and even the nape of the neck are garnished as though our faces were at plat du jour and all the possible trimmings of rosebud radishes, butter snails and springs of parsley were being attached thereto.

Pansy Herring-for-short opines that I resemble Fatima with snakes crawling over her brow.

Then once again the scene is changed. With our tresses dripping quarts of water down the neck, a Fatima-like veil is drawn over our face and curled locks.

And that's but the half of it, dearie. An object somewhat resembling a mule's feed bag is dropped over our heads. The effect is ghoulis—only eyes and nose emerge through the proper slits. We resemble the High Kibogle on feast day.

The bag begins to swell like a blimp preparing for ascent. We clutch the chair arms to escape vaulting heavenward. Blasts of hot and cold air swirl upon our heads.

Monsieur departs for a moment. The blimp gets hotter and hotter. We cannot take it off. We do not know the French words for "too hot." We yell "tres something," and while waiting for the next word, monsieur, assuming that we mean "tres froid" or "very cold," turns on some more hot air.

We yell. A good yell seems to bring the same results in any tongue. We are rescued.

When our heads have been properly heated and chilled and dried in the feed bag, the ondulation, marcel, is given.

The bill? Six francs for shampoo, six francs for cut, eight francs for the perfume water spout, seven francs for the ondulation. Total, 27 francs or 81 cents.

The JARNAC One-Cream System

Adopt it for a 10-day revelation
See why thousands now use it—
why the men approve it

There are thrilling moments in every woman's experience when "a skin that feels as lovely as it looks" is a priceless treasure. And most often they come in the romantic days of summer.

Lucky is the girl who has discovered Jarnac—whose skin is always at the pink of perfection.

She will never be caught unawares, never embarrassed by an imperfect skin.

How to use it
Like all great discoveries the Jarnac One-Cream System is surprisingly simple.

It is based upon a scientific, prophylactic principle—approved by leading physicians and skin specialists—that "a clean, acid-free pore never distends," never becomes enlarged and ugly. Only keep each tiny pore scrupulously clean and free from sour, skin acids, and it becomes invisible. Then the skin, aided by Nature, takes on a fine-grained texture, a lovely, soft, suede finish.

No elaborate treatment is necessary. Jarnac goes to the seat of the trouble. Removing the cause, it automatically removes all need for so-called "foods," for tedious massage or facial calisthenics, for elaborate and expensive "many-cream" methods.

Jarnac

At your drug store

Simply wash the face with pure soap and lukewarm water. Apply Jarnac Cleansing Cream generously. Pat it in. Leave for several moments to work into the pores. Remove with soft cloth or tissue. Do it every night. That is all. No other treatment is needed.

The amazing results are due entirely to the elimination of skin acids, to the rapid recuperation of the pores.

10-day "money-back" offer

Just use Jarnac Cleansing Cream for 10 days at our risk. Go to your nearest beauty counter. Purchase a full-sized package for 50 cents. Use one-third of it to make this test. That will take about 10 days. Follow the simple directions. But use no other cream or "food" that might clog the pores and excite the acids. Then if you are not in love with Jarnac, return the remainder to the counter where you purchased it—and the full purchase price will be refunded.

Procure your supply of Jarnac Cleansing Cream at once. You will never go back to ordinary cleansing creams again, we are sure. JARNAC ET CIE, Inc., 154 No. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.

PESTS ON THE FARMS.

In the newspapers of one day we read that insects are attacking leaves of cherry trees, that a particularly dangerous form of black rot is found this year in the grapes, and that seventeen-year locusts are coming next year. Outside of attending to these and other bugs and blights the farmer has nothing to do.

Henry Ford recently gave publicity to an article in which he figured how many hours of labor is required to mature a crop of grain. He concluded that farming is only a part-time occupation and that Agicola should find something else to do in making greater efficiency. If the farm could not be moved to the factory, perhaps the factory could be moved to the farm.

From early spring until late fall the farmer is beset by pests in the form of insects or fungus diseases on plants or cholera among hogs or diseases in the poultry yards.

Millions of dollars are expended annually in experiment stations of agricultural colleges in studying these pests and diseases, in instructing the young farmers in how to combat them, and in preparing and distributing bulletins to farm bureaus and to individual farmers. That is only the beginning. Knowing how to combat these enemies counts for naught unless the work is done. Doing the work does not count unless it is done at a particular time. In order to exterminate an insect or to combat a disease, the attack must be made when the enemy is in a certain stage.

The peculiar situation is that the successful control of bugs and blights promotes greater production, and surplus production is the tragedy the farmers is now called upon to meet.

The last twenty years have been devoted by colleges and field experts to education of the farmer to greater production of grains. Test your seed corn, the farmer was told. Select your seed corn for large ears, well filled at the ends. Plant seed that has been tested for freedom from root disease and thereby increase the productive stand.

Conserve the soils, rotate your crops, plant soy beans, use limestone. All to the end that the production shall be greater—and the price cheaper.

No wonder the farmer is at his wits' ends.

LONG'S APPEAL TO LAWYERS.

Chester I. Long, president of the American Bar association, made a strong appeal to lawyers of the nation in matters of national importance. He is a statesman. He formerly represented Kansas in the United States senate. His arguments on public question in the Denver convention of lawyers were sound and were presented without prejudice, or passion. His discourse was not a political harangue.

It was squarely put up to the lawyers by Long that the times demand action without delay in the direction of reform of court procedure in the interest of law enforcement, in the interest of justice, in the interest of preservation of the keystone of our government, the courts.

Senator Long placed himself among those who regret the distance we have gone in changing the relationships of the nation and the state in government. He indicated belief that failure of states to ratify in a perfunctory manner the proposed child labor amendment is a sign of awakening on the part of the people, a sign that amendments are no longer to be taken as a matter of course when they manage to get through congress.

Last he discussed in a temperate manner the question of federal aid, voicing his disapproval. He does not ask that there be an upheaval and a tearing down of the work that has been done, but he indicated his belief that we have gone too far and should stop. He believes that the nation is sufficiently interested in post roads and highways that may be used for military purposes to warrant federal aid in that direction. He hesitates at going farther.

Time you find out what it's all about it's all about something else.

If the police ever get after us we'll get a job as vice president and never be noticed at all.

ON THE AIR

Daylight Reception of 750 Mi. Recorded

Chicago, July 24—(AP)—Daylight reception of a broadcast originating more than 750 miles away is an accomplishment added to the radio feats of the summer of 1926. Under the scorching rays of a sun that brought 100 degree marks on the mercury, reliable reports have come of the logging, via the loudspeaker, of WSMJ at New Orleans by a Chicago enthusiast.

The time was the afternoon of last Tuesday. Fairly steady signals were recorded, although the volume was not equal to that at night. The surprised listener didn't mind the heat after that.

Reception Tuesday night also seemed to be above even the ideal winter average. Distance stations could be recorded as easily as if the locals were silent. Loudspeaker listening to these signals was the rule rather than the exception.

Her Own Way

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

PITY IS AKIN TO LOVE.

Jerry said this almost in a breath as he stood on the public street holding my hands.

I looked up into his face, and a warm contented feeling came over me as I looked at him with admiration. "This upstanding person is my man," I said to myself. "He loves me. He wants to marry me."

I think, if I had not promised to meet Joan, I would have gone with Jerry Hathaway to luncheon. But such was my feeling at the time that I knew I would have told him that I would marry him as soon as he wished me to. Sometimes I have wondered what would have happened if I did.

As it was, I caught a sight of Mr. Robinson coming down the street, and I was so afraid that he would see me with Jerry or Joan that I rushed back into the drug store where I had been telephoning and out on a side street.

I never said goodbye to Jerry at all. In fact, all the way to the Congress Hotel lobby, I saw Joan immediately and I forgot everything but her and the wife of Barry Cornwall.

Poor Joan's face was so white and drawn that I pitied her from the bottom of my heart, but before I had time to tell her she came forward with tears rolling down her cheeks.

"Judy, is it true?"
"Yes, dear, and you should be forever grateful."
"But, Judy," she whispered, "I loved him."

"Surely not after the way he treated you," I said.

"Yes, I did. One cannot tell why one loves or why one does not love. Barry could have made a splendid man if the fates had not been against him. You know he went to France when he was seventeen years old and was gassed at Chateau Thierry. When he came back he couldn't do any hard work and he didn't have much education. There was one thing he could do. He could dance."

CHANGES AMONG HITTERS SHOWN IN WEEK'S TABLE

Yanks Dropped Below 300 First Time this Season

Chicago, July 24.—(AP)—The League leading Yankees in the Johnson circuit, for the first time this season, have fallen as a team below the 300 mark in hitting, but their stellar performer, Babe Ruth, did not share in the slump. Outted for a week from leadership of the hitters, the Babe jumped back to the top in official averages issued today, gaining six points.

Bib Falk, of the Chicago White Sox, who displaced him temporarily, dropped back a bit, and is now second. Fothergill, Detroit outfielder, has become a regular and has the remarkable percentage of .416 but has played in only two thirds as many games as the Bambino.

Manush of Detroit made the week's best showing with the willow, going from tenth to fifth place among the leading ten hitters, while most of the others in the first ten fell back. Detroit and St. Louis were the only American League teams to improve their batting percentages this week.

Gehrig of New York maintains his lead in runs over Ruth, probably by reason of his high total of 14 three baggers. Falk holds both the doubles and the total hits leadership, but Ruth as usual is far in front in home runs, now having 29.

A newcomer in the majors, Hummel of the Chicago White Sox, has taken the lead in base stealing with 16. Mauer of New York and E. Rice of Washington having failed to pifer any this week.

Pate Heads Pitchers

Pate of the Athletics is now credited with eight straight victories in the box, but Herb Pennock of the Yankees is the real leader of the pitchers with 15 victories to six defeats, winning two games this week. His teammate Shocker is just a step behind with Zachary of St. Louis close up. Dutch Reuther of Washington ranks them slightly in percentage among the regulars but has won but ten games to three defeats.

Leading American League hitters: Fothergill, Detroit, .416; Ruth, New York, .373; Falk, Chicago, .370; Mauer, New York, .369; Manush, Detroit, .364; Heilmann, Detroit, .358; Burns, Cleveland, .354; Goslin, Washington, .351; Mostil, Chicago, .350; McNeely, Washington, .341.

The St. Louis Cardinals took the hitting honors of the week in the National League, with Lester Bell, third baseman, making the best showing of the squad and going into the first ten in the official averages issued today. Stephenson, new Chicago outfielder, also has made an impressive gain in percentage, but has played in less than half the season's games.

Christensen, of Cincinnati was the only one of late week's batting leaders to add much to his rating. Grantham of the Pirates and Babe Herman of Brooklyn, suffering a considerable slump.

Tied in Homers

Back Wilson of the Chicago Cubs hit his 14th home run of the season, but so did Bottomly of St. Louis. Fourrier of Brooklyn creased into double figures with his circuit drives. Kiki Cuyler regained his traditional leadership of the base stealers, after a period of obscurity due to the speed of Frank Frisch and Young of New York. Cuyler now has 19, two more than his contenders.

Jones of Chicago became the leading pitcher of the league this week, with seven victories to one defeat, but them of St. Louis leads the statists with twelve victories, and Pete Donohue of Cincinnati has 14, though charged with eight losses.

Leading hitters in the National League: Hargrave, Cincinnati, .378; Bressler, Cincinnati, .372; Herman, Brooklyn, .355; Grantham, Pittsburgh, .351; Christensen, Cincinnati, .348; L. Bell, St. Louis, .341; Traynor, Pittsburgh, .341; Hornsby, St. Louis, .341; E. Smith, Pittsburgh, .341; Cuyler, Pittsburgh, .339.

CHARLEY ROOT MAY BE HERO OF CUB FANS

Seems Likely to Displace Alexander as Their Idol

Chicago, July 24.—(AP)—When Charley Root the Cubs star right hander, stood on the pitching peak last Sunday, and shot down the New York Giants with his "Blazing Ball" 2 to 1, before 35,000 rabid fans, he came near to stepping into the place in the affections of the local National League rooters held by "Big Pete" Grover Alexander.

Alexander was the idol of the Cub fans for years, and whether he won or lost, the big pitcher always received his round of applause from his admirers. The suspension, and subsequent release of "Alex" to the Cardinals was a shock and surprise to the loyal fans. "Alexander the Great" they used to call him when he was in winning form, and his record as a pitcher with the Phillies and since 1913 with the Cubs constitutes one of the most brilliant chapters in the pitching history of the major circuit.

Root is a rookie, in the strict baseball meaning of the word as this is his first season with the club. Root was the property of the Cubs last year, but he was farmed out to Los Angeles, and he made a great record with that club.

The new star has won and lost some close games this year, but that is the usual thing with the star pitcher. He often draws as an opponent the star of the opposition and the result is a hot pitchers' battle, with luck entering into the result.

In defeating the Giants on the home lot before a large Sunday crowd, Root passed the acid test. He might be chased out of the park by the Braves or the Phillies, but if he can trim John McGraw's outfit the Cub rooters are satisfied.

Judging from comments of the baseball public, there is no one who can take Alexander's place in the hearts of fans of this generation, and when "Big Pete" comes to town with Hornsby's team he probably will have many Chicagoans pulling for him.

But baseball bugs are fickle and if Root continues his good work, and keeps his edge over the Giants, the Cub rooters soon may have a new idol to worship.

SIDELIGHTS

Tony Lazzeri, former Coast Leaguer, is becoming a terror with the bat for the Yankees. Yesterday he uncorked a double and a home run.

The Red Sox were forced into an extra inning game but lost. It was the fourth game the Red Sox dropped in a row.

Al Simmons uncorked a homer with two on, but the Athletics were unable to hold their advantage and watched the Philadelphia losing streak to seven games.

Bill Southworth, former Giant, got revenge against his former teammates when the Cardinals vanquished New York. Bill drove in four of the six runs his club scored.

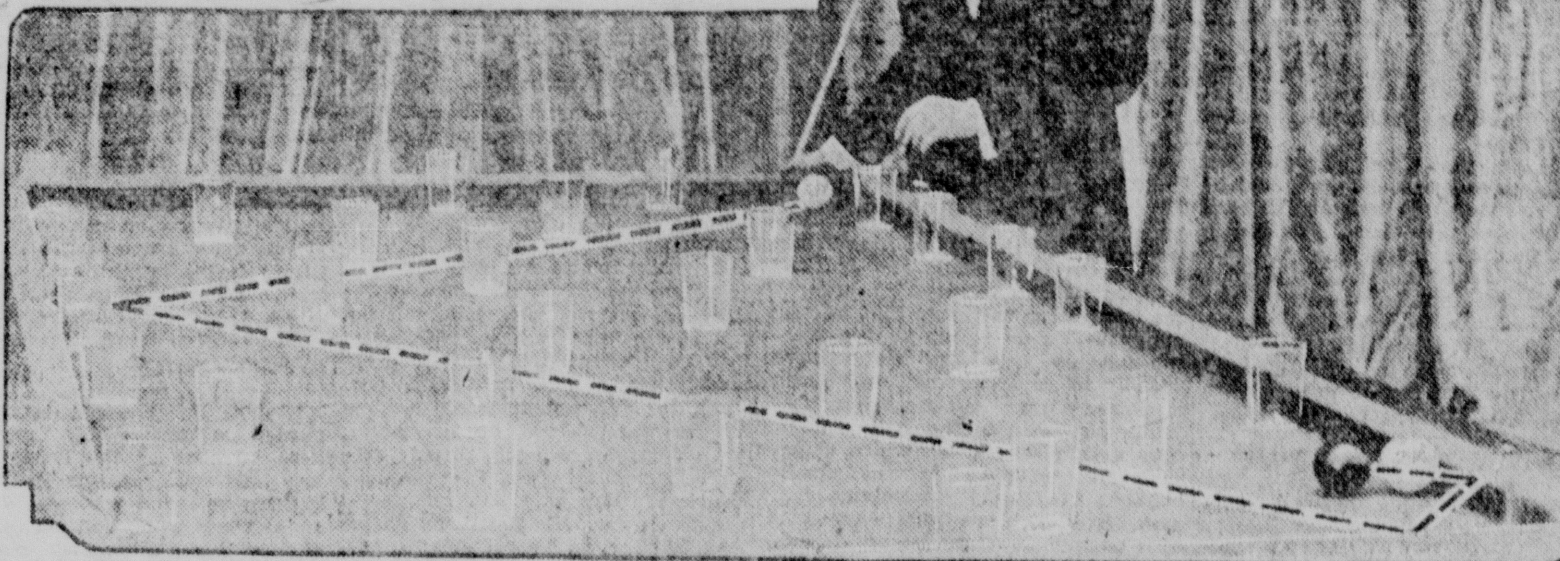

HEALO! HEALO! HEALO!
A really good foot powder.

YOU MAY BE CUE SHARK, BUT CAN YOU DO THIS TRICK?

Enrich Hagenlacher, German cue shark and present world champion at 18.2 balkline billiards, is something more than just title holder. Enrich (that's easier to pronounce than his last name) boasts quite a reputation as a trick shot.

In a recent exhibition out on the Pacific coast the fellow from the land of the Big Berthas set the onlookers to whispering by making a three-cushion carom on a table virtually covered with several dozen drinking glasses. Enrich made the shot without even tinkling one of the obstacles. The dotted line shows the course of his ball.

If you think it's just a soft parlor trick, try it some time when your cue is well-chucked, your optics clear and your hands steady. We'll bet our old Brown fedora you'll crack something.

CUBS, CARDINALS ADVANCING; REDS DEFEATED FRIDAY

Chicago and St. Louis in National Three Games in Rear

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Cardinals appear to be making the sport designed to carry them to the front in the National League and Cincinnati now leading, has given some ground in the terrific pace.

Hornsby, aroused to the point where he is fighting the greatest battle of his career, went into yesterday's contest with the New York Giants despite a painful injury to his right eye. A bad bound on a throw from outfield Thursday did the damage but the manager refused to stay out of the game.

The Cardinals won 6-1. This victory placed the Cardinals only 3 1-2 games behind the leaders. Philadelphia outfit, the Chicago Cubs, but went down 5-3 with Charley Root keeping the easterners' hits well scattered.

Reds Are Defeated
Fourteen hits off Mays and Nehf gave the Boston Braves a 6-2 verdict over Cincinnati, Dave Bancroft leading the onslaught with three singles for a perfect day at the plate.

Another exhibition of expert bat wielding gave the New York Yankees an 11-3 margin over the Chicago White Sox.

The Athletics were beaten again by Cleveland, 8-5, their seventh straight defeat. They played poorly throughout, having five errors.

St. Louis pounded out 15 hits to stop the Red Sox in 10 innings 6-4, the second extra inning contest between the teams in two days.

Detroit also staged a hit fast to beat Washington 9-6. The Tigers counted 10 safe blows, five of them for extra bases. Jimmy Uchirsko, who held Cleveland hitless for three innings a few days ago, was not so successful in his second major league appearance. Detroit found the McKeesport recruit for seven hits in two innings.

CALLAHAN IS A SCRAPPER FANS ALL LIKE TO SEE

Bounces Around Like a Bear, and He Also Hits Like One

Chicago, July 23.—(AP)—The old bromide that "a sock on the foot is worth two on the nose" means nothing to patrons of the fist art. The by who can lash out with his leathered fist and knock his opponent absent minded gets the plaudits and holds the crowd until the last blow is struck. This was demonstrated by Shuffie Callahan, a slightly oversized Chicago welterweight, who stopped Dan Gaspara at the White Sox park boxing carnival recently.

Callahan is a former truck driver of the Chicago environs, who has forsaken commerce and industry to ply his trade as a fighter. Prior to the enactment of the Illinois boxing law, Callahan was one of the main attractions in the scrapping arenas in the far suburbs, and his popularity was due to his violent punching which generally rendered his opponent null and void very quickly.

In the ring Callahan bounces around like a big bear doing a cake walk. He stands with his right hand extended, as he is a natural left handed hitter. His left fist is constantly drawn back in the same menacing attitude that is used when one is about to heave a brick. If he misses them with one hand he swings the other.

Callahan's bout with Dan Gaspara at the White Sox park was put on after the championship affair between Mandell and Kansas. Despite the drizzling rain, the vast crowd held their places to see the violent Callahan do his stuff, and enjoyed the rough and slugging battle uproariously. In the seventh round Callahan hit Gaspara so hard on the nose that all the spectators within ten rows of the ring felt their snouts to see if they had nose bleed.

Callahan floored his opponent three times and won in the ninth when Gaspara's handlers tossed a towel in the ring indicating their boy was through for the day.

Then the crowd went home.

I. N. U. Team Playing Benefit Game Today

The Illinois Northern Utilities company baseball team went to Sterling this noon where they are meeting the leading team of the Twilight Factory league of that city in a benefit game being played at the Community athletic field, Arlie Zigman, of Sterling, second baseman of the I. N. U. team, is confined to his home suffering from a fracture of the left ankle, sustained in a baseball game one week ago yesterday while sliding into the home plate. The proceeds of today's championship game are to go to the injured player.

WHOMEVER STAGES BIG FIGHT MUST DIG INTO JEANS

But Fight Fans Wait on Outcome Present Squabble

Chicago, July 24.—(AP)—Whoever stages the fight here in which Jack Dempsey defends his heavyweight crown if it ever is staged, will have to dig deep down into the pocketbook.

If the bout between the champion and Harry Wills, negro challenger should go through, and E. F. Clements, president of the Coliseum Club who holds a contract, maintains that it will, in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 must be parted with the boxing commission when a permit is applied for.

If Tex Rickard finally puts over a Dempsey-Turney match he must show the commission something like $600,000 in cash.

Under Clements' contract, which he says was assigned him by Floyd Fitzsimmons and later made binding in a new agreement with Dempsey through the passing of a title bill, the champion is to receive $300,000 on August 3 and a half million more ten days before the fight while Wills is to receive $350,000.

Clements' Optimistic
Clements, the validity of whose contract was enough to halt Rickard's plans, announced yesterday that the Dempsey-Wills fight would be held in Chicago between the dates of September 15 and 20. He declined to reveal his financial backing.

Rickard, who previously announced that Turney and Dempsey would only here either September 11 or 13, must post $150,000 for the champion and $150,000 for the challenger. Rickard is known to have strong financial backing, including Sheldon Clark, millionaire vice president of the Sinclair Oil Company and seven others unnamed.

Clark said neither he nor his associates would share in the profits but had consented to aid Rickard in handling the fund for charity. Both Rickard and Clements had announced that part of the profits would go to charity.

To Force Clements
Rickard said he still hoped to put on his fight here after legal entanglements involving the Clements' contract had been straightened out. Gene Norville, Dempsey's manager, said he intended to force Clements' hand by demanding the $200,000 on August 3 or before the contract was valid.

Clements is well known in Chicago as a sporting personality. Several years ago he brought to this country the Italian super man, Benito Infante. He incorporated the Coliseum Club and named the Coliseum for twelve fights at $2,000 each. The floor of the building now is being torn up to install an ice rink for a hockey club in which Rickard is interested.

Coast Golfers Have All to Themselves

White Bear Lake, St. Paul, Minn., July 24.—(AP)—Two of the outstanding golfers from the far north-west, heretofore unknown to golfers in the west, are to play the all-time western amateur title all to themselves today as they met in a 36 hole match on the White Bear Yacht Club course to decide possession of the crown.

R. E. Steth, Seattle, and Frank Delp, Portland, the finalist, won these positions yesterday when Steth defeated Rudy Knapp, Chicago, five and four, and Delp defeated Kenneth Hiest, Chicago, 9 and 7.

The northwest's golf invasion was successful in other ways. Eight players of that section met eight mid-westerners in special singles and doubles matches last Saturday. The far west won all the singles and halved one of the doubles to give them a win in the series, 9-7.

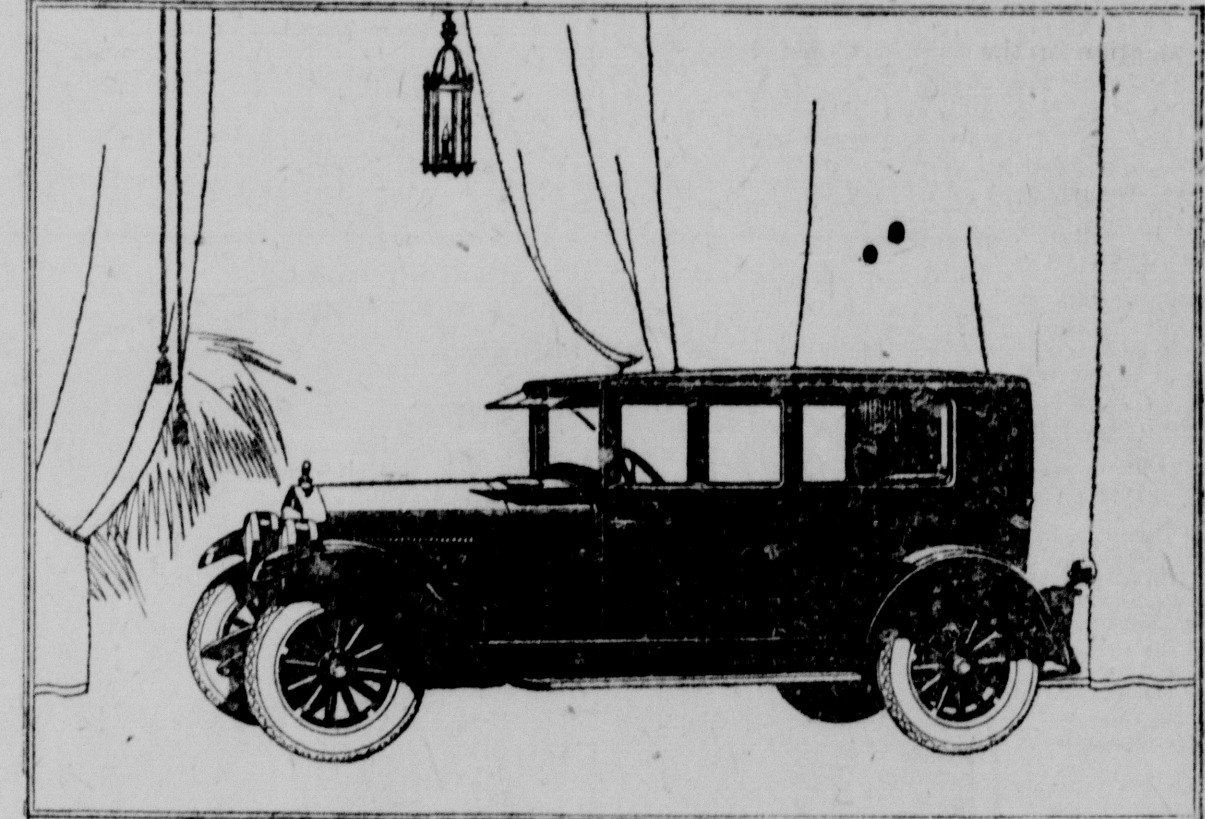

Seven of the eight invaders qualified for the championship play; four survived the first round, three the second, and Delp and Steth the third of semi-finals.

EXPECTS HEGIRA OF WILD PIGEONS

West Plains, Mo.—Millions of wild pigeons are assembling somewhere in Central America for another migration to the Missouri Ozarks, according to Lewis J. DePriest.

"Just a hunch," says DePriest. "Forty-two years ago in the fall of 1884, the great hegira of pigeons blotted out the sun. Trees were broken by their weight." DePriest thinks this will be another such year.

FRENCH LAW REGARDING ROUGE IS NOT ENFORCED

Many Americans Touring France, A. P. Writer Says

Paris, July 24.—(AP)—There is still a law on the French statute books although not enforced, that imposes a penalty on women who beguile men into marriage by means of rouge, powder, perfumes and similar feminine aids.

"Whosoever attracts into the bonds of marriage any male subject of His Majesty, by means of rouge or powder, perfumes, false teeth, false hair, steel corsets, hooped petticoats, high heels or false hips, will be prosecuted for sorcery and the marriage will be declared null and void, if the accused is convicted."

This law, passed by the parliament of 1770, is still on the French statute books and could be appealed to by a present day complainant. It seems to show that the mere man of King Louis XV's time had some protection from the wiles of the woman who resorted to artificial means to win a husband.

Even the introduction of the new civil code in 1804 left it in force, under the section dealing with "fraud in the quality of merchandise."

MANY AMERICANS ABROAD
So great is the number of Americans in Europe this summer that virtually every home going steamer during August and September was booked to capacity by the end of June, while hundreds of travellers were fighting for a chance to get passage.

As a result, hundreds of Americans who would stay weeks longer abroad if they could get home later, are booking themselves for the latter part of July.

The careful travellers made their reservations for return before leaving the United States, but they were in the minority and all experienced globe-trotters. Hundreds and even thousands of others, who had no definite plans came abroad to stay as long as their money lasted and then expected to go home at any time they applied for passage.

Their money may not give out by the time they are now obliged to leave, but they are leaving from necessity through lack of the later, just when France is at its best in summer.

The Leviathan and other ships of the United States lines have not a single berth left for August and September, and conditions are similar in other companies for this year, which has seen a record rush of Americans abroad.

LA FRONDE, a Paris daily written by women for women, has undertaken a crusade to abolish bull fighting in France by strengthening of the law against cruelty to animals. The paper would make penalties such that no one would attempt to organize the spectacles and would confiscate the receipts whenever a fight was held.

The popularity of bull fighting in the south of France is scarcely realized outside of the country as it is generally believed that the sport is limited to Spain. Thousands of persons, however, attend many bull fights every Sunday. The French claim that these fights are not as cruel as those staged in Spain.

LA FRONDE is not finding executive support from President Doumergue in its campaign, since the French president, a true son of the south, is a fervent supporter of bull fights.

STRONG PROGRAM FOR PICNIC ILL. STATE FARMERS

Will Be Held Near Mt. Vernon, Thursday August 12th

Mt. Vernon, Ill., July 24.—(AP)—Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, who championed the recently defeated McNary-Haugen bill in congress will be the speaker at the annual Illinois Farmers picnic, here August 12.

Secretary George A. Fox of the Illinois Agricultural association, in making the announcement today said, that Senator Watson had been secured because of his active participation in the fight for agricultural equality. He recalled that Senator Watson made one of the most forceful addresses in the senate in presenting the endorsement of Vice President Dawes and Sir Josiah Stamp, English economist, for the McNary-Haugen bill.

Extensive plans for entertainment of picnickers from all parts of the state are being made here. Egypt will be on dress parade. Her record 1925 crop of peaches will be given prominence in the fruit and products displays, and in addition there will be watermelons, apples, plums, and displays of red top, poultry products and wheat from the Southern Illinois wheat pool.

Mrs. Charles E. Sewell of Otterbein, Indiana, will speak on the ladies program in the morning. Demonstrations and displays of Southern Illinois boys' and girls' club work will be under the supervision of Miss Nathalie Vansold and Mr. E. L. Filchard, state club leaders from the University of Illinois.

The annual state horse show tournament will bring the county champions from every section of the state to compete for honors. A new system of matching teams will result in playing off the championship games earlier in the day, according to the local committee.

The hog and chicken culling contests which decide the state championships will be held at the noon hour.

The Illinois Farm Bureau Baseball League is making a determined effort to play off the semi-finals scheduled in time to hold the state championship game at Mt. Vernon. But if the rush of the oats and wheat harvest prevents, an exhibition between two of the crack teams in the league is planned.

New York—Flo Ziegfeld's blondes are going on strike because they think he prefers brunettes. They were coaxed to pose as they told how they must have an apology and a 50 percent raise. He denies disparaging blondes, but says he is trying to organize a brunette chorus for his next show.

ILLINOIS THIRD IN PRODUCTION MOULDING SAND

Jo Daviess County is High in State in Producing It

Springfield.—(AP)—With 290 steel foundries in Chicago alone, Illinois ranks third in the United States as a producer of moulding sand, a report published by the State Geological Survey shows.

The high rank of the state is due to intensive production of silica and sand deposits," the report said. "Yet the total production of sand, nearly 800,000 tons yearly, is insufficient for the needs of Illinois foundries."

More than 50 per cent of the Chicago foundries use sand obtained out of the state, and about one-fourth of all moulding sand used by Illinois foundries is obtained out of the state.

"Eighty-five of the 102 counties are producers of moulding sand in varying commercial quantities. Of these Rock Island, Henry, Winnebago, Peoria and Will counties produce three types of the best grade of moulding sand. Bond, Henderson, and Kane counties have the largest number of producers."

"Five counties show undeveloped resources of more than 100,000 tons. Between 200,000 and 1,000,000 tons are estimated for Jo Daviess, and Pope county shows from 180,000 to 200,000 tons of untouched deposits. Tazewell, Peoria and Gallatin counties have deposits ranging from 100,000 to 700,000 tons."

"Resources of commercial moulding sand alone approximate at least 6,000,000 tons. There are several million tons more not included because of lack of transportation facilities."

"Sand resources of the state are divided into the fine, and the medium and coarse sands. The latter are abundant and will furnish a supply for many years. The fine sands are not so abundant. Besides these grades, the loess or yellow sands are found in abundance along the Mississippi river, but are not greatly utilized."

Tilden and White to Meet in Tennis Final
Brookline, Mass., July 24.—(AP)—"Big Bill" Tilden and Lewis N. White, 22 year old Harvard law student from Austin, Texas, reached forward today for a grasp on the Longwood tennis bowl.

"Big Bill" earned the right to compete in the finals by a sweeping victory over Edward C. Chandler of California in a semi-final match on Thursday. White downed Takeuchi Harada, the last Japanese threat, in straight sets yesterday.

When the singles match had been disposed of, Tilden and White were to meet once more,—this time on the doubles courts.

Tilden, paired with his protegee Al (Sandy) Weiner, of Philadelphia will oppose White and his partner, Louis Thalhimer, for the honors.

In the women's invitation singles, Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California and Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., remained for the finals of the 16 women who started competition.

The Very Latest Things in Bathing Suits

Mack Sennett, whose eyes are as good as ever, has five of his young movie actresses demonstrate the latest styles in bathing suits. They are, left to right, the Misses Thelma Hill, Violet Byrd, Ruth Taylor, Margaret Hampton, and Muriel Montrose.

Petrified Humans—Or Petrified Tree Trunks

Coal miners in a shaft at Beckley, W. Va., got a shock the other day when they uncovered two stone figures—apparently petrified bodies of a man and woman—buried deep in a vein of coal. Scientists from the Smithsonian Institution at Washington are on their way there to see if the figures are indeed petrified bodies or only remarkable life-like tree trunks. Incidentally the miners refuse to work in the part of the shaft where the bodies were found, calling it "the graveyard." The figure in front in the picture above is believed to be a woman's body; the one behind that of a man.

Time?—Time To Go Swimming!

Even on the sands of Manhaften Beach, N. Y., they couldn't forget their chorus training. So here is a human sun dial with a pretty girl for each hour of the day, and one more for good measure. Time? What time do you like? The girls are from the "Merry World Revue."

In Long Whiskers Race

He won't shave until the strike is won. James F. Walsh, right, told Mayor Walker, left, when with Harry Bak, center, he called at the City Hall. The two visitors are leaders of the striking subway men. "I believe you can have more money and still save the 5-cent fare," Mayor Jimmy said.

'Fastest Human' Finds Acting Isn't All When $1,500,000 Worth of Oil was Burned 'Make Believe'

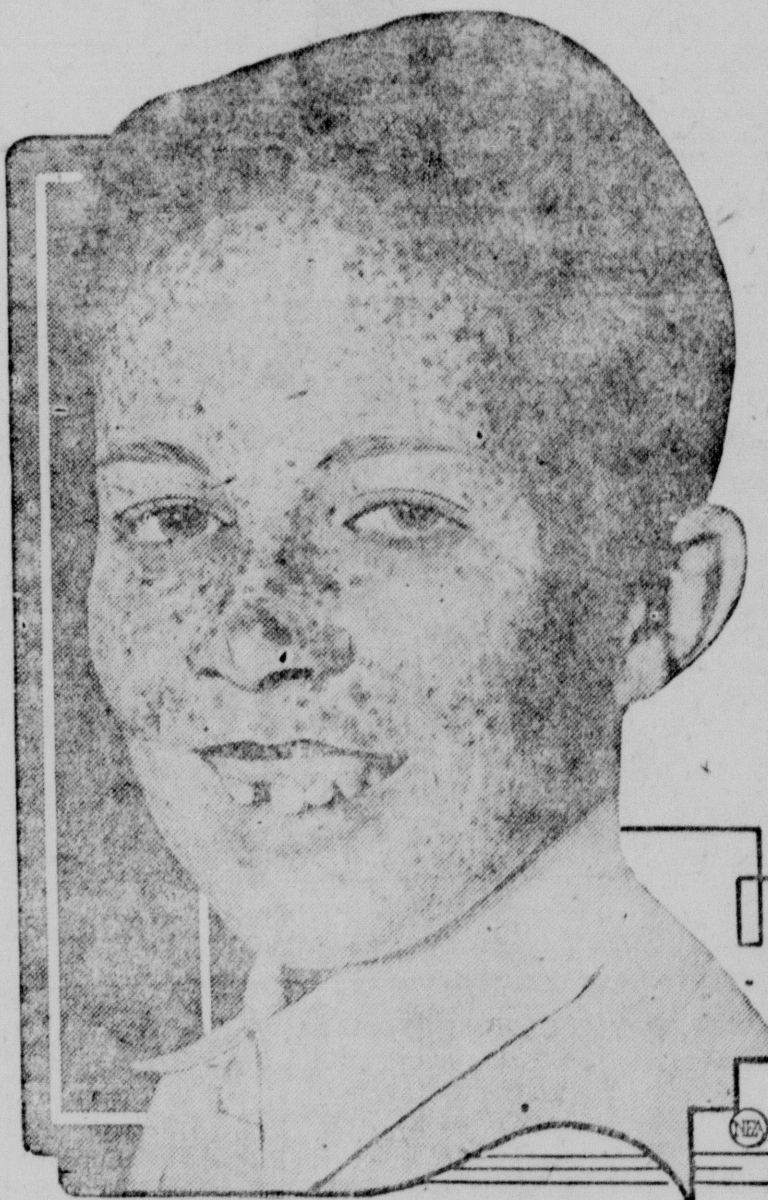

BEBE DANIELS GETTING CHARLEY PADDOCK "READY" FOR A CAMERA APPEARANCE, AND (INSET) PADDOCK TRYING "MAKE-UP ROLE ON HIMSELF."

Another famous sport celebrity has followed the lead of Jack Dempsey. The king of things pugilistic, you'll recall, married Estelle Taylor, a movie queen, a little more than a year ago. Now comes the engagement of Charley Paddock, world's "fastest human," and Bebe Daniels, also of the films. Paddock turned actor a short time back with Miss Daniels as his leading lady. A friendship grew between the two which quickly ripened into love. The announcement of their engagement followed.

THE FRECKLE KING

He Defies the Whole World to Produce a Face With More Freckles

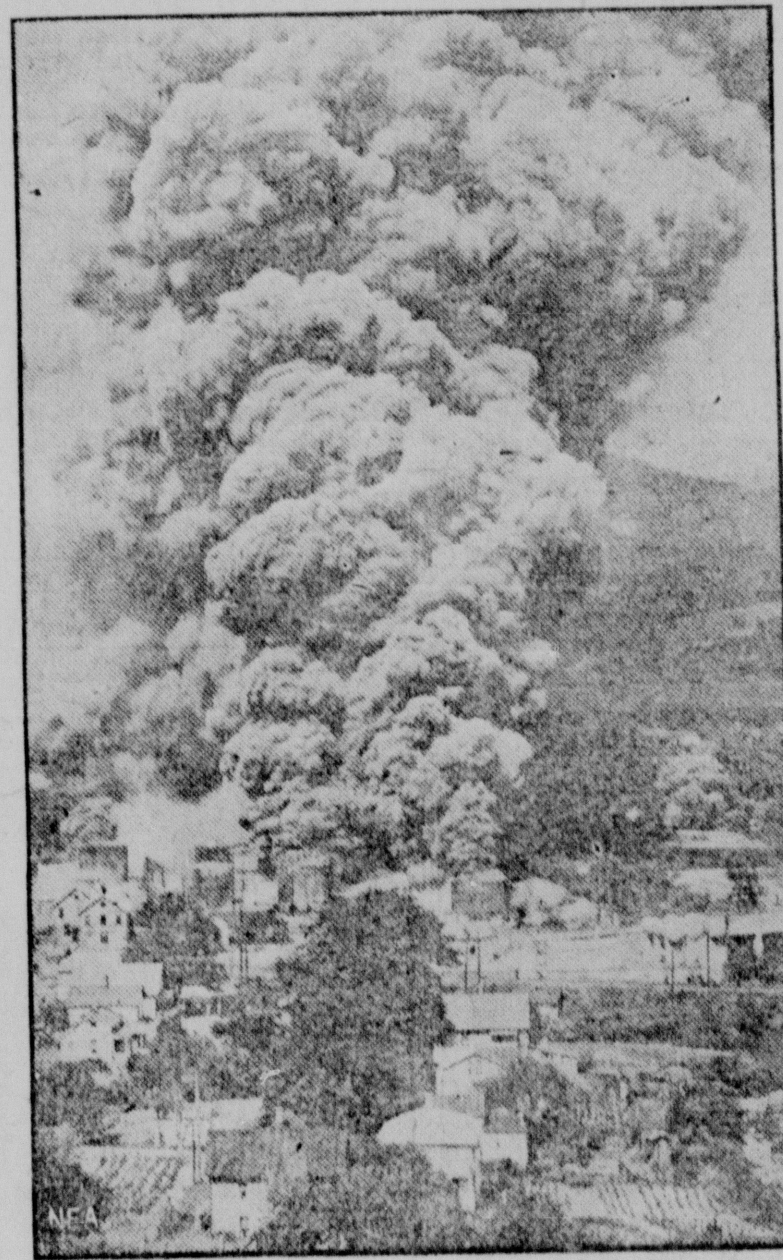

San Francisco nominates Johnny Boyle, 11, as the champion freckle-faced boy of the country. Even Johnny himself doesn't know how many he has. It would take too long to count.

Radio Takes Part in Tribute

With the thousands present, many more thousands of Elks throughout the country paid tribute to those of their brothers who died in the World War, at the dedication of their national memorial headquarters building in Chicago. The services were broadcast through WBBM. Former Governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania, past exalted ruler of the Elks, is shown before the microphone presenting the building (shown in inset) to Grand Exalted Ruler William H. Atwell of Dallas, Texas.

This remarkable picture shows $1,500,000 worth of oil going up in smoke at Warren, Pa., where a big oil refinery caught fire. One of the most unusual pictures of a fire ever taken, it gives a general view of the conflagration at its height.

The Smiling Stork

This, dear friends, is the Shoebill, or Whale-headed Stork. When he isn't at the London zoo he spends his time bringing little fellows to deserving fellows along the White Nile in Egypt. No wonder he smiles.

This Woman Driver Wins Prize!

Mrs. E. R. Carstaff of Lake Arrowhead, Calif., is shown holding the prize cup won recently for the conservation automobile run from Los Angeles to Lake Arrowhead, up a mountain highway that rises a mile above the sea.

"Just a Toy"

Censored

Countess Agnes Esterhazy, daughter of the former Austrian ambassador to the United States, has entered the movies. The first film in which she acted, however, "The Passion of Women," has been banned by Berlin censors.

43 Operations

Beatrice McCrory of Rushville, Ind., accidentally swallowed some lye and her throat swelled shut. Forty-three operations were performed to save her life. The first 42 were unsuccessful; the 43rd was better, and she'll live.

23 AND 50

Mrs. Anna Campbell, 50, mother of five children and grandmother of 11 has become the bride of Luther MacPherson, 23, an $18 a week mill worker. The two live in Cleveland, where MacPherson was a border in his home.

Hikes 8,000 Miles

This is Bobby, 7, the hiker. You may have seen him before, in Hollywood, Florida, New Jersey, or points between. For Bobby and his father, Arnold Widmer, have trudged from coast to coast, seeking health and ruggedness for Dad. This picture was taken when Bobby dropped in at the White House to display his coat of tan.

New Styles

The kimono must be losing favor in Japan, with the advent of American styles. At any rate, here are two little Japanese girls, snapped as they strolled along the moat of the imperial palace at Tokyo, completely garbed in American style.

Moves Up

Robert P. Skinner, U. S. consul general at Paris, has been nominated by President Coolidge as minister to Greece. He will succeed Irwin B. Laughlin, who resigned recently.

Heiress Wed

Katherine Kelley, daughter of Cornelius Kelley, president of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co., surprised New York by eloping with Nils Florman, wealthy society man. The first Mrs. Florman obtained a divorce, saying she couldn't live on $25,000 a year.

Chief Skipper

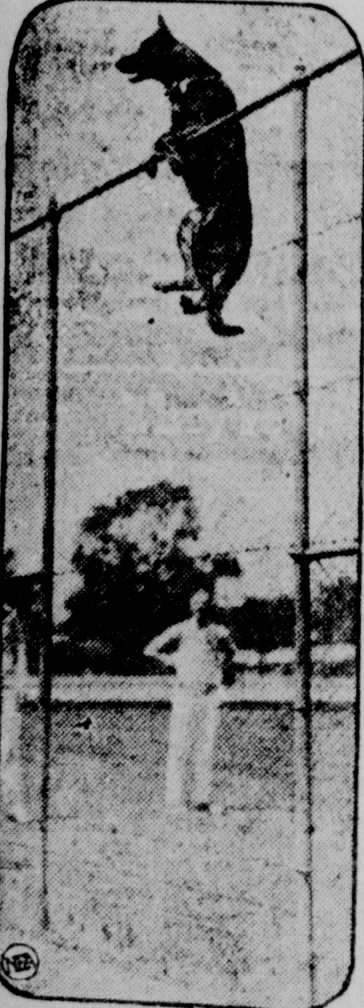

Brig. Gen. Albert C. Dalton, new president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, who succeeds Elmer C. Crowley, removed by the Shipping board. Gen. Dalton was assistant quartermaster general of the army and has had much experience in handling army transport service.

Elks' Leader

Here is the new leader of the Elks, Charles H. Grakelov of Philadelphia, who was elected grand exalted ruler of the order at the session of the Grand Lodge in Chicago.

Can't Stop Him

ences, no matter how high, can't stop "Duke." German police dog owned by Edwin Barthen, Larchmont, N. Y., when he's after an intruder. In fact, hurdling fences like this is sport for him. The height is 12 feet.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

ERNEST LYNN, author of THE YELLOW STUB

(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER LX
As John rode down to work the following morning, something inside him seemed to be whispering that this was to be an eventful day.

The sun was warm, and faces around him in the street car radiated good cheer; breakfast, in the old familiar restaurant next door to his office building, had never tasted better.

Briggs was at work ahead of him. "Well, partner," and the little artist wore a broad grin, "do you know who's Kelly and Jones' biggest client?"

"Schuyler and Lowry Hatz?" "Right—and that's the client I've decided we're going to get. We'll aim our artillery at their biggest target."

"The boy's getting ambitious," John laughed, amused at Briggs' enthusiasm. "We've got a fat chance."

"Did you know that their public relations advertising this year amounted to something like two hundred thousand dollars?"

"That much? Where'd you get your information?" "Never mind. Now, a friend of mine, who's a crackjack salesman, is willing to go after clients for us on the regular commission basis. I talked it over with him last night. Fellow named Harris. He's been selling automobiles, but he knows something about the agency business—and he's a great salesman, John."

"Well," John began, but Briggs went on. "Now, since you've made me a sort of junior partner I've been studying things. Out of your fifteen per cent commission a little over nine per cent is net, isn't it?"

"Well, is eighteen thousand a year worth going after? Say we deduct ten per cent of that for Harris, if he helps us land it—is it worth while?"

"Briggs," and John sat down to explain, "it would be worth while if it were only half of that—or a quarter—or a tenth, even. But there are things about this business you don't understand—that I'm just beginning to understand myself. Now doesn't it strike you as rather odd that Kelly and Jones should have that Schuyler Hatz business instead of one of the big, high-powered agencies? Does it?"

"You mean," the little artist suggested, "that Kelly has a pull?" "I mean," John told him, "that Kelly is a sharpshooter, and there's more one advertising manager who's getting his palm greased by Kelly and Jones. I mean that Kelly splits his commissions with the Schuyler advertising manager. Do you understand now?"

"Well, personally I'd be inclined to say the advertising manager was the crook—more so than Kelly. I've never done business that way and I never will, and the fellows that do it are just making it hard for the rest of us who care something about ethics."

"Now you see why I don't think it's any use got after Schuyler and Lowry."

"But," and Briggs was smiling mysteriously, "what would you say if I told you that Schuyler and Lowry were getting a new advertising manager?"

"You mean that?" John sat up in his chair. "If I told me they were making the change, that's what suggested the idea to him of going after them for us. He's acquainted with the man who's going in. But," and Briggs frowned a little, "he also says the new man will most likely want to let a big agency handle it."

"We'll go after it anyway," John got to his feet, his jaw thrust out.

But where, John was thinking as he ran through the magazines Briggs had turned over to him, was the secretary Menefee had promised to send over?

Where was this paragon Dick had recommended? Oh, if it did happen to be someone with real intelligence, capable of running the office without asking questions—someone who wouldn't ask a fancy salary.

• Even Judith seemed to understand.

And suddenly he was thinking again of Fay.

What did it all amount to, anyway, without Fay around?

He went into Briggs' office to borrow the artist's sheets and tucked himself with cutting out the hat advertisements. Here, he was thinking as he studied one of them, was a chance for improvement—a half tone, say, of a pearl gray spring hat, lying on an elegant hat table, and a pair of gloves thrown carelessly beside it. And beneath it the slogan, "Hats for gentlemen."

Miss White came in noiselessly. "A lady to see you, Mr. Milburn. She said, 'Menefee sent her.'"

"Where, Miss White?" "In the conference room. She has a little girl with her."

John frowned. "A baby? Humph—I didn't want any married women. And so was rather annoyed at Menefee. 'Why didn't Dick let me know?'"

But outside the little conference room he paused, his hand on the knob.

What was this strange sensation within him? This sudden constriction around his heart, followed by a breathless, fluttering feeling as if he were falling from a great height? Had Dick—did it mean that—no, no, it couldn't—he mustn't dare think it. God!

And then pushing the door open, inward.

And halting abruptly, his heart giving a great leap, a cry, his lips, his eyes sagging with sudden weakness.

"Fay!" A hoarse, choked whisper. This thing, then, that he had not dared hope for—it was true. "Fay!" And Fay, standing beside Judith, whom he was holding by the hand as she sat on the table, said very slowly, "John, I've come back to you."

"Fay! Judith!" John was beside his wife now, sweeping her into his arms, and all the anguish he had known in those bitter months with out her was suddenly swept away.

"Daddy, daddy. It was Judith crying herself, unable to comprehend it all but sensing something wrong."

And John, picking her up in his arms, kissing her fat little cheeks, holding her up adoringly at arms length.

Fay, a shiny wetness in her eyes, said with a smile, "Judith forgot her vote will close July 30. The amendment will be voted on by the people November 20."

golly . . . Aw hell," and he grabbed Fay's hand and retreated in confusion.

Then John, carrying Judith, went down with Fay to meet Dick Menefee, whom they found lounging in the lobby, grinning from ear to ear.

"Yes, of course I wrote to her," Dick was telling John. They were waiting in the living room while Margaret and Fay prepared luncheon. "I knew you'd never do it, and that's all Fay was waiting for. She never stopped loving you a minute, old man. You should have known that."

He flicked an ash from his cigar. "And do you know why she was so will . . . to come back to . . . 'Why?'"

"Because you needed her. There's something about a man when he's in need of a woman that a woman can't resist. I don't profess to understand very much about the female psychology—but you needed Fay, John. And so she's back."

"God knows I needed her, Dick," John said, and pressed the other's hand in both his own. "I'm grateful—more so than you'll ever know."

Two weeks . . . and Christmas with them. And it was the happiest Christmas John and Fay had ever known. Away from their people, true, but having each other, and Judith.

Fay had taken over the running of the office and John was free from bothersome detail and routine. With Briggs, John planned a series of "outs" designed to attract the eye of the Schuyler and Lowry advertising manager. Briggs' friend, Harris, already had interviewed him, and sent back reports that were far from discouraging.

"It means," Briggs said, "that if we can hit him in the eye we've got a good chance."

"Well," from John grimly, "we'll hit them then."

And so they worked their heads off, knowing all along that Kelly, Jones and Graham were throwing every thing they had into keeping the account and cheered by the knowledge that it was at least a fair fight now and that nothing Graham said about them would hurt them in any way.

Especially now that Fay was back. Fay was called in time after time to criticize their ideas, especially those designed to promote the sale of hats for women—a business which with Schuyler and Lowry was little more than a sideline but which John felt sure could be made into a big thing.

And then John, loaded down with giant-sized brief cases, left town—as had Graham one memorable night when they were angling for the Milltown contract—and set out to lay down his cards and bring back an answer.

In his ears were ringing Fay's parting words: "Goodby, John. You'll win. I know it."

And all the way during that long train ride he was thinking if only he could put this over he'd be made. It would make little difference what other accounts Graham took away—he'd be made. And so he prayed a little, thinking of what it would mean to him, fingerling with care, touch the all-important brief cases.

And Fay, back in Chicago typing letters, paying bills, interviewing advertising representatives of . . . and . . .

"Thinking that never before had she been so happy. Back again with John; a new John, a little haggard as work, perhaps, and a little harder, but somehow a little finer."

Time passed, during which she and Briggs, hoping and praying that John would get what he went after—more because of the effect it would have on John himself than on account of the business—hardly dared speak of the thing that was so close to their hearts.

And so one day Fay answered the telephone to be told that long distance was being called. A sudden sinking of the heart as she waited for John's voice. . . .

Then it came: "Hello—Fay?" And before he had spoken another word, she knew he had won.

THE END.

BLUE PRINTS OF ILLINOIS STATE HOUSE ARE LOST

And No One Knows How Many Kinds Stone Were Used

Springfield—(AP)—Because the blue prints of the Illinois statehouse have been lost, no one knows just how many varieties of stone are used in its construction. But at least four limestones, two granites and seven kinds of marble were employed.

The greater part of the material was obtained in Illinois. The foundation, costing nearly $500,000, is made entirely of granular limestone from Hancock county. Its thickness varies from eleven to sixteen feet.

The superstructure of the statehouse is made of Niagara limestone obtained from Joliet and Lemont quarries. The walls of the rotunda are of solid stone, faced with Bedford blue limestone and Missouri red granite.

On the east and south fronts Joliet limestone was used in the arches and columns. The tall columns were made of Fos Island granite in imitation of Siena marble with vases and capitals in imitation of antique bronze.

Staircase Was Marvel

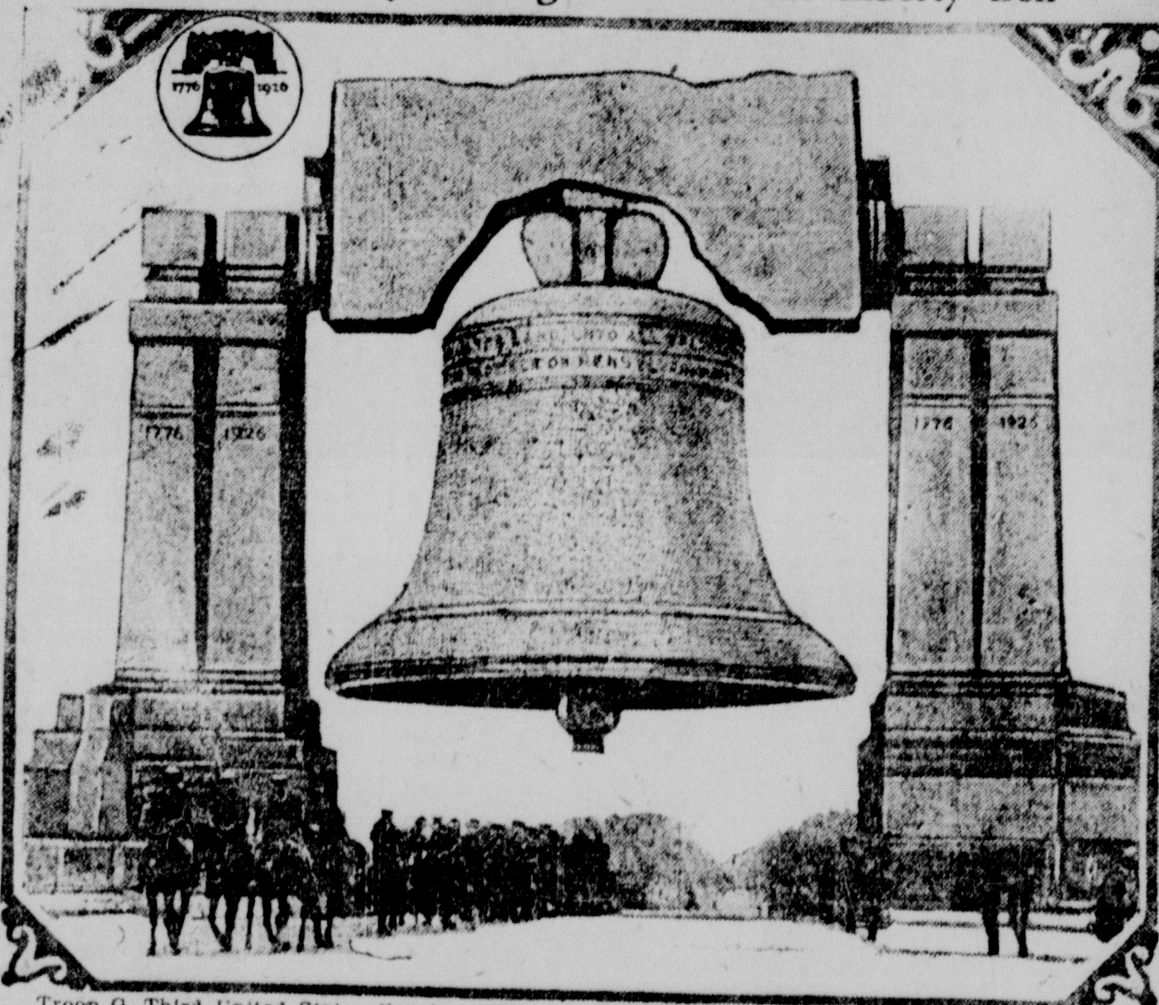

Built entirely of many varieties of marble, the staircase leading from the second to the third floor was at the time of its construction considered superior in design, finish and material to any similar staircase in the world.

Twelve varieties of marble are used in the wainscoting of the corridors. Some of the varieties are white Italian, Apis green, Lisbon, Glens Falls, Old Tennessee, Concord and Tuckahoe marbles. The floors are also of marble in a variety of mosaic.

The blueprints of the state house were lost twenty years ago when they were sent to another state. At the time of the completion of the statehouse, it was considered second only to the capitol at Washington in beauty or architecture, and many states examined the plans before launching their own construction program.

It was on one of these trips to a neighboring state that the plans became lost. Officials have been unable to locate them since.

AMERICAN GIRLS CAPTURE PRIZES IN MARRIAGE MART

English Diarist Doesn't Like Way Our Girls Get 'Em

London, July 24.—(AP)—The English matrimonial market, apparently is gravely perturbed this season by the invasion of Miss America.

One society diarist is authority for the assertion that the number of American girls who have captured English marriage prizes is "almost sensational." Hardly a day goes by without society columns in the newspapers announcing Anglo-American "catches" or "matches".

Picked at random there have been the engagements of Miss Helen Besly of Hinsdale, Ill., to Naval Lieut. F. B. Tours; Miss Lillie Lee Kennedy of Boston, Mass., to Lieut. Commander Geoffrey L. Towis, and of Miss Marguerite L. Rouquette of New York to Gen. A. Kennedy. Then there was the recent marriage of Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse of New York to Viscount Furness.

The diarist adds that this is really not at all strange. "American girls," he says, "are essentially feminine, as compared to the more out-of-doors type of English girl, although that type has indubitable charm. But above everything, the American girl has an alertness and a sympathy of mind that is particularly devastating to an Englishman's susceptibility." English girls are advised to "make a surreptitious study of the American secret" for, says the diarist, sport from good looks, American girls score on personality.

The young swans which Pavlova is anxious to place in desirable homes will not be given away until autumn and will be "carefully trained." London newspapers are speculating as to just how one trains a cygnet.
